Welcome to the Show Me Reds Sale

It is an exciting time in the cattle business for sure! I hope you will join us for the 2024 Missouri Red Angus Show-Me Reds Sale and Missouri Red Angus Annual Meeting. The vision of the Red Angus breed is to "Dominate the beef industry with Red Angus genetics" by valuing Innovation, Integrity, Commitment, and Relationships. The breeders offering cattle in this sale are people of integrity and are committed to customer success – they imbody the ideas of Innovation, Integrity, Commitment, and Relationships.

One innovation that our association has implemented is the MORAA Fescue Belt Certification Program. Cattle from the fescue belt are more likely to thrive in our environment and in most environments in the U.S. As you browse the catalog, you will find cattle that qualify for the Fescue Belt Certification identified as such.

The demand for quality Red Angus genetics is at an all-time high. As we look at trends in the beef industry, we know that it is time to build back the American cowherd. The maternal traits of mothering ability, fertility, docility, and longevity are hallmarks of Red Angus genetics. The carcass traits of Red Angus influenced cattle are highly accepted in the market as well. What an incredible combination of economically relevant traits this breed has to offer!

Sale cattle will be in place & available for viewing on Saturday afternoon & early Sunday morning. Whether you intend to buy or just come visit, we truly look forward to seeing you on sale day. If you are unable to attend, don't hesitate to contact any of the consignors or buyer representatives listed in this catalog. Additionally, the sale will be broadcast live over the internet through DV Auction. Please RSVP to join us for our Annual Meeting Dinner on Saturday night – we would love for you to join us.

Looking forward to a great weekend April 27 & 28!

Steven Rogers MORAA President

MISSOURI RED ANGUS ASSOCIATION

Pescue Belt Certified Program

Many of us who live in the "fescue belt" have experienced the problems associated with importing newly purchased cattle into our environment. What we've seen is a significant percentage of cattle that have not been raised on fescue struggle to perform after being imported onto this

"grass we love to hate". Some animals eventually overcome this issue, but many will not and will eventually be culled from the herd.

Fescue toxicity results from toxins called ergot alkaloids, which are produced by a fungus called endophyte that grows within the fescue plant. Cattle experiencing fescue toxicosis may exhibit rough hair coats, heat stress, suppressed appetite, poor growth rates, reduced reproductive performance, and in some cases lost tail switches or even hooves. The decreased animal performance seen during the "summer slump" of cool-season pastures is made even worse by these toxic effects of fescue.

Research on the subject of fescue management has been done for years. Several strategies can be used to mitigate the toxic effects of fescue, including removal or suppression of seedheads, overseeding of pastures with legumes or other forages, and good mineral supplementation programs. However, fescue remains a serious challenge. The USDA estimates fescue toxicosis costs the U.S. beef industry an estimated $600 million to $1 billion annually in lost revenue because of reduced reproductive and growth rates in cattle herds.

The entire state of Missouri is situated within the fescue belt. Since fescue was introduced into our region, Missourians have built their herds retaining only genetics that have proven to be "fescue tolerant." When looking for Red Angus genetics, look for the MORAA FBC logo & cattle that have "Bred-in Fescue Tolerance."

High-Quaity Red Angus Pemales

In 2021, the Red Angus Association of America launched the "Red Choice" program to promote improved heifer development, increase marketing opportunities for Red Angus females and create reliable sources of high-quality replacement heifers for cattle producers. The program embraces proven reproductive and genetic management practices which, in turn, lead to high-quality, long-lasting females that are ready to hit the ground running in commercial herds.

Based on the Show-Me-Select Replacement Heifer Replacement Program from the University of Missouri, the RedChoice program comes with several requirements that increase the overall quality of enrolled females such as minimum vaccination requirements, pre-breeding exams, utilization of reproductive technologies, parasite control and feet and leg scoring. The program culminates with sale eligibility wherein cattle producers can purchase premium Red Choice females for their herd with the confidence that those females have been managed and raised to the highest quality standards possible. The primary goal for these better-managed heifers is their retention in the herd of origin, where their extra value will be measurable over

The Show-Me-Select Replacement Heifer Program provides cattle producers with tools to enhance reproductive andgenetic potential of their herds and improve ultimate profitability. The program transfers science-based knowledge that enables participants to make practical production decisions that impact their bottom line.

The Show-Me-Select Replacement Heifer Program is an educational conduit for beef producers, veterinarians and allied industry, and is focused on enhancing the adoption of reproduction and genetic/genomic technologies across Missouri. The program, which began in 1996, is the only statewide on-farm beef heifer development and marketing program of its kind in the United States.

Nearly 150,000 heifers, from more than 900 farms, are enrolled in the program. The marketing arm of the program has reported sales of almost 37,000 heifers into 20 states nationwide, with gross receipts of more than $60 million. To date, MU's investment in implementing the Show-Me-Select Replacement Heifer Program has resulted in an estimated impact of $200 million statewide.

Premium Red Baldy is a tagging program designed to take advantage of hybrid vigor by maximizing the best traits of both Red Angus and Hereford and providing commercial producers with premium replacement females. The program will help producers access genetically verified females that have the best combination of longevity, fertility and adaptability to incorporate into producers' herds.

To qualify for Premium Red Baldy, females must be sired by bulls in the top 50% of the breed for Baldy Maternal Index (BMI$) or Profitability and Sustainability Index (ProS). Targeted breed percentages will range from 25%-75% for both breeds, with the balance being the alternate breed. Females must be red-bodied with either a bald or brockle face.

As the nation's cow herd expands to meet beef demand, Premium Red Baldy females will rise to the challenges of producing more beef sustainably and profitably, without sacrificing quality.

The Premium Red Baldy program has the ideal balance of maternal and carcass traits, which will yield cattle poised to increase the profitability of the commercial producer.

The impact of the Alaynah cow will be felt in the red angus breed for many years to come, especially when her granddaughters look this good! JL Alaynah 853C has only been at the house a short time, being an ET born in a different herd. However, she's been fun to watch grow and is well on her way to being kid-broke. Our favorite thing about her is how she carries her muscle. Add on her cherry red color that's so sought after, and she makes for a really exciting prospect.

People called this heifer's dam a bull maker, but we were not upset when she had this heifer. Stout, big-boned, long-spined, and square when you get behind her, JL Lana Lynn 9693 is as much a bull maker as her dam. Gentle and already kid-broke, she'd make a fun county fair project, then kick her out to pasture and make an awesome replacement out of her.
